Zhukov Appears Strong Man of Russia

WASHINGTON-U.S. Ambassador Chip Bohlen is trying to run against veteran Sen. Lister Hill took a trip from Moscow to Rome the other day, officially on a vacation. Real reason behind his trip, however, was to send a secret cablegram to Eisenhower on the turmoil inside Russia. He went to Rome in order to use the high-speed transmitter of the American embassy there so the Russians under no circumstances could interfere with his message.

Nubbin of Bohlen's report was that Marshall Georgi Zhukov, co-commander of Germany with Eisenhower after V-E day, may emerge as the most powerful man in Russia.

As a general rule, insurance companies have opposed a system of compulsory insurance, and it is easy to see why. Meanwhile, a new book, Cross-Currents, by Ben Epstein and Arnold Forster, gives a penetrating insight into the hate hangers-on who have attached themselves to the splinter groups.

"The hate groups," diagnose Epstein and Forster, "are welded to one another by the anti-semitism they exploit; latter-day knownothings who in their fear of Communism oppose civil liberties as a weakness in our ramparts; extreme political reactionaries who are unable or unwilling to recognize the bigots among those joining their movement."

As part of the stop-Ike movement, the hatists have started smearing his brother Milton as a dangerous new dealer. Gerald L. K. Smith even points to the naming of Ike's mountain retreat in Maryland, "Camp David," as sinister. References are creeping out regarding the alleged "Eisenhower red record." And Smith is repeating what he did in '52-citing the 1915 West Point year book and its kidding reference to Eisenhower as a "Swedish Jew" as proof that Eisenhower is Jewish.

Note-A secret meeting held in Chicago's Conrad Hilton Hotel on January 27 to discuss ways of stopping Ike included such notorious pamphleteers as Merwin K. Hart of New York, February made it plain the basic Myron Fagan of Los Angeles, and West Hooker of Larchmont, N.Y. Note-Williams will soon ask Congress for a big boost in funds over his present $2,500,000 a year for trade fairs. The man he will have to convince is Rep. WASHINGTON (A)-Right nowwhen a lot of people seem puzzled about the Russians - you may want to paste a few of N. Khrushchev's phrases in your hat for future reference.

Khrushchev's expressed intentions may have been overlooked the bewilderment over the treatment now given Stalin or because he surrounded his statement doctrine with thousands of words about peace, trade, and disarmament.

What he said is no surprise in the hydrogen age when a war might wipe out both the United States and Russia. He said, in effect, there are lots of ways to skin a cat and making war doesn't have to be one of them.

He didn't change doctrine, just tactics and policies. He said Communists everywhere should try to take over where they can by legal means: by getting into national legislatures or parliaments.

But in countries which can't be taken that way, he said, revolution may be necessary. In showing he has not abandoned the idea of conquest by violence, when peaceful means can't be used, he

This, however, is the frame of mind taken by one reader who said, "every time I see a dog or animal I get scared about rabies. How can you get this disease? How long does the germ live on the outside if dropped someplace from clothing?"

Blind fear is not the proper

Rabies or hydrophobia is acquired only by the entrance into a wound of saliva containing the responsible virus.

In other words, indirect exposure from contaminated objects is no importance because the virus dies so easily in the atmosphere. A bite by an animal which is not itself rabid will also not cause hydrophobia.

There are, however, some important things to consider about rabies. It is an old disease and a terrible one. Over the years, it has been responsible for many deaths; it can be eliminated. From the practical standpoint, dogs are the most important carriers of the rabies virus. It can afflict cats as well and is quite common among some wild animals, particularly foxes.

If it can be eliminated from dogs, however, the danger to human beings falls to practically nothing. This has been done in certain countries.

In North America the most important measures of rabies control are aimed at dogs. It has vaccine, or both.

These measures have not been followed to the point where rabies has been eliminated in the United States or Canada, but they could be. It is important to do this because the disease in human beings is so serious, even though all of those who are bitten by rabid animals do not get hydrophobia.

The reason for the latter fact is that the virus must be present in the saliva of the biting animal and apparently this is not always

If a person has been unfortunate enough to be bitten by an animal, what then?

The first step is to identify the animal which has done the biting so that it can be found by the authorities and examined for the presence of rabies. The second step is to seek medical advice without delay.

There have been some changes in recent years on what is believed to be the best treatment but it always includes cleansing of the wound and sometimes the use of an immune serum, or a

Symington Gets Post Where He Can Serve the Farmers

WASHINGTON - No political significance, at least no presidential reason, is attached to the appointment of Senator Stuart Symington (D-Mo) to the Senate Committee on Agriculture and Forestry. But as one of his colleagues, who would not mind seeing the junior senator in the White House, said "Just the same it's good politics, with the farm issue the best the Democrats have."

Maybe the timing is a happy one, but his friends in the Senate know he has long wanted to be on the agriculture committee. After all, as he says "farming is a billion dollar industry in my state." His yearning must have been great because he gave up a coveted seat on the powerful Finance Committee to Senator Clinton Anderson (D-NM) to get it. Just why Senator Anderson, a former Secretary of Agriculture wanted to give up the seat is a greater mystery.

By Robert Dieffenbacher, D. D.

Eye appeal is used strategically by advertisers in order to sell products to customers. A picture, graphic illustration or an outstanding use of color appeals to the observer who pauses to study the illustration.

If the eye has been caught and a product has been advertised, the viewer becomes a prospective customer. The presentation may be of such interest that the customer becomes a product user and a potential salesman himself.

We may not all be models who have our pictures appearing in full color in the printed page. We are, however, living illustrations of our beliefs. If we are happy people who put our faith in God and in man, we have smiles on our faces. We show our confidence and our lack of suspicion in our comfortable way of living.

Many people spend little time reading the Bible or even the Gospels of Matthew, Mark, Luke and John. But every day people observe you and me. They notice whether we have a deep faith in God and whether we treat others as we like to be treated. As a poet once said, "The only gospel some men will read is the 'Gospel according to You.' ' What kind of a story does your portunity and the privilege to run after a man and talk him into marrying her.

The Sedalia woman believes there are wiser ways to get a man. She thinks a woman should do all she can to attract the man she wants without letting him know and he will do the courting and the proposing. She thinks men, most men like it better that way, they think it is their own idea. She can prove that she is right because she was happily married for many years until the death of her husband and she let him do the courting, while her cousin sat around waiting for the girls to run after him and at 95 he is still a bachelor.

If he doesn't change his ideas on women he will just remain a bachelor, leap year or no leap year. It's high time he broke over and started doing a little courting himself, she thinks.

UN Head Starts Mideast Tour Amid Violence

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., April 5—(P)—A new wave of violence flared along the Israeli-Egyptian border to-day as U. N. Secretary Dag Hammarskjold announced plans to leave tomorrow on his peace mission to the Middle East.

The U. N. truce chief in Pales-tine, Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, sent urgent appeals to both Israel and Egypt for an immediate cease-fire along the Gaza Strip, long a trouble spot.

Claims Israeli Assault

An Egyptian delegation spokesman here said Israel started the incident with an "atrocious assault." An Israeli army spokesman in Jerusalem said Egypt started it by mortar shelling of three Israeli border settlements.

Word of the latest outbreak was received here shortly after Hammarskjold announced he would begin his peace mission early next week after a three-day strategy meeting in Rome with U. N. Palestine experts.

An ominous warning to Missouri drivers was issued by Missouri Highway Patrol Superintendent, Col. Hugh H. Waggoner today in calling attention to the increase in the traffic death rate for the first three months of this year.

Col. Waggoner said, "We are entering that time of the year when people like to load into the family car for a week end drive or outing. Many of these outings that were planned for fun are going to end in tragedy. We can expect entire families to be wiped out. The young and old alike will be killed and painfully injured unless some miracle of the highway takes place."
